GALLOPING GHOST

R. H. S. - 1951

Published by the
STUDENTS OF RANDOLPH HIGH SCHOOL
Randolph, Vermont

Dedication

We, the Class of 1951, dedicate this yearbook to our classmate, Charles Pitkin. These memories of him we have — steady, blue eyes and a friendly smile, reflecting both his quiet way and cheerful view of life; his love of joke and laughter; his interest in airplanes; the willingness to help when and where he could.

Student Council

The Student Council is the governing body of Randolph High and Junior High School.

It is made up of the presidents of each class; two students, a boy and a girl, from the seventh and eighth grades and each class in high school; the president of the council, usually a senior; Mr. Murray, and a faculty adviser, selected by the council, making nineteen members.

It is the Student Council's duty to assemble at any time to solve problems confronting the student body. It sponsors the annual Carnival plays, sports, Skool Nooz, library, and many other student activities.

Class History

By Edna Bingham and Dino Merusi

Ah! September, 1939, the day that thirty-nine hopefuls entered the first grade. Out of these thirty-nine only ten are graduating with us. Outstanding in all our minds is when Gardner Allen was caught sitting in the waste basket by Miss Barbara Blodah and Miss Ray, our teachers, and had to sit there for awhile.

Entering the second grade, we saw eight new faces, a few of which were Janice Berry, Louis Belisle, and Marilyn Eddy. Louis Belisle read so loud in reading class that it must have scared him off because he didn't return again until our freshman year.

When we entered the third grade we decided we'd all get butchies, even the girls, for we had all heard these awful rumors about "hair pulling." But then we met Mrs. Stokes and learned differently, for we all liked her very much. Duane Irwin did manage to make occasional visits to the coatroom, though.

We had a cheerful little guy, Frank Maynard, who enjoyed humming so much that he often would hum in class. During an arithmetic class, one day, he broke out with the tune, "Oh, Johnnie." Mrs. Stokes decided it was about time to break him of this habit so for a while that afternoon he stood in front of the class and sang "Oh, Johnnie." We haven't heard him sing since.

Despite the loss of nine, we gained eight newcomers. A few of them were Carolyn Dickinson, Jean Manning, Frank Maynard, Donald Perry and Elwin Preston.

A year later we entered the fourth grade, with Miss Walbridge as our teacher. We lost seven this year and gained thirteen. Among them were Gordon Winot, Janet Grassetto, and Harriet Gushea. We also ever so faithfully saved Maltex box tops.

Our teacher in the fifth grade for the first half of the year was Miss Bosworth, whom we all thought a lot of. Then she left about March and Mrs. Jamieson came. We liked her also. We lost eight people and gained five.

The following year we tripped across the hall and found ourselves in the sixth grade. Miss Marshall took one look at us and decided she'd had enough, but she was soon convinced that the old saying, "looks is only skin deep," was true. We really enjoyed the sixth grade. We lost ten and gained two.

1946! At last we entered junior high. Mrs. Blaisdell taught us for a while. Then, due to bad health, she had to leave and Mr. Amee took over. All the girls had their first case of "puppy love." We published a paper called the "Seventh Grade Scribbles."

We at last reached the eighth grade. We gained Patricia Bacon, Lora Smith, Lois Bennett and Helen Rix. High school was right around the corner, but we all began to wonder if we'd make it.

One day while we were all supposedly studying, Mrs. Gray saw someone slipping his hand into his desk and then quickly to his mouth and begin chewing. She told him if he was going to eat he must bring enough for us all. He did. For quite a few days we were treated, until she said, "Enough is enough." We stopped.

Mrs. Irene Gray was our home room teacher, but Miss Clark came in and taught us history. She asked us one day if we thought she was quite easy on us. We all agreed, thinking that she'd like that. She didn't. We got double assignments.

At last, in 1947, we entered high school, with fifty-four students. Our class advisers were Mr. Murray and Mr. Parker. Our class officers were: President, Ronald Soule; Vice President, Elaine Chadwick; Treasurer, Louis Belisle; Secretary, Carolyn Dickinson; Student Council members, Elinor Parker and Frank Maynard.

Our Carnival play was "Fur and Warmer."

We entered the sophomore year with forty-nine of us still struggling. Our advisers were Mrs. Perry and Mr. Lary. Our officers this year were: President, Ronald Soule; Vice President, Frank Maynard; Secretary-Treasurer, Elinor Parker; Student Council members, Elaine Chadwick and Donald Perry.

We won the Carnival Cup this year with our play, "Sparkin.' "

Forty of us entered the junior year with Frank Maynard, President; Donald Perry, Vice President; Barbara Eddy, Secretary; and Elaine Chadwick, Treasurer; Student Council members, Kenneth Proctor and Carolyn Dickinson. Our advisers were Mrs. Perry and Mr. Lary.

Our play this year was, "Goodnight, Please."

The English III-A class went to New York.

Our senior play, "Brides to Burn," was very successful despite our hotwater bottle accident. Again we walked away with the Carnival Cup with the play, "The Sisters McIntosh."

Our officers were: President, Frank Maynard; Vice President, Kenneth Proctor; Secretary, Carolyn Dickinson; Treasurer, Joyce Campbell; Student Council members, Edna Bingham and Donald Perry. Our advisers were Mrs. Perry and Mr. Lary.

As our senior year draws to an end and we walk up on the stage to receive our long awaited diplomas, we think of all the fun we've had and the friends we've made and begin to realize just how much we'll miss our days at R. H. S.

Class Will

By Elinor Parker and Janet Tancreti

We, the Class of 1951, being at the present moment in full possession of our faculties, do hereby give, devise, and bequeath these last few remnants of our four happy and fairly successful years at Randolph High:
To the Faculty, as a whole, we leave a raise in pay.

To Mr. Murray, we leave the behavior of the seniors in eighth period study hall, that he may give it to next year's freshman class so he won't miss us.

To "Coach" Gaidys, we leave a clock that will ring five minutes before the end of the period so he won't run overtime!

To Miss Mesh, we leave a supply of firecrackers to liven up sleepy chorus students on Monday morning.

To Mrs. Perry, we leave a ticket to Rome, that she may see some of the places she has taught about.

To Mr. Robertie, we leave a Cadillac so he won't go in debt repairing his Ford.

To Mr. Lary, we leave a supply of neckties so that he will always have one to match all his new suits.

To Mr. Cheney, we leave our excellent driving ability so all his future driver education classes will be a success.

To Miss Plumley, we leave plans for a new Home Economics room, providing she lives long enough to see the new high school built — we're afraid we won't be around then.

To Mr. Parker, we leave a club house for his 3:30 club.

To Miss Johnson, we leave the typewriters in the best condition possible for any class that is willing to treat them with the utmost care as did the seniors this year.

To Mr. Bond, we leave an empty space in his study halls, which we know he will miss greatly!

To "Bill" Somerville, we leave our thankfulness for the many times he has let us in before the bell rang.

To the Class of '52, we leave the excitement of an overnight class trip and all the fun that goes along with being seniors.

To the Class of '53, we leave the order in which our class meetings were run, so "Gus" won't have to start everything.

To the Class of '54, we leave the hope that they, too, will be graduating — three years from now.

To the Junior High, we leave hopes of a new school building!

Dino Merusi leaves the back seat on the school bus to any male (and/or female) basketball player who so desires it.

Elaine Chadwick refuses to leave her "interests" to any underclassman.

Helen Rix leaves her sign language to Leah Jones so that Leah may talk without permission.

Edna Bingham leaves for a domestic career.

"Kenny" Proctor leaves his "dear" slaying ability to future R. H. S. hunters.

Elva Jean Wilber leaves her dancing ability to Elaine Bell.

Carlene Rogers leaves for Hollywood to challenge the Barrymores!

"Bucky" Maynard leaves a well-worn trail to Northfield to the next lucky guy.
 Beatrice LaPerle leaves her French heritage to Joan Barrett so she may have a B average.
 Carolyn Dickinson and Donald Perry leave together, to be together, always.
 Louis Belisle leaves his address book of blondes, brunettes, etc., to Richard Ferris.
 Sylvia Jarvis graciously leaves her ability to be seen but not heard to Sandra Richards.
 Elaine Pitkin leaves her knack for arriving at 8:30 to anyone who doesn't like to wait long for classes to start in the morning.
 Elwin Preston leaves his thick, wavy hair to Mr. Parker.
 Dorothy Amadon leaves her ability to answer all her letters faithfully to Marlene Kellogg.
 "Phil" Morse leaves his long legs to David Mahoney so David can get a bird's-eye view of the world.
 Laurette Roberts leaves her speed in typing to Muriel Krivacs.
 "Bobby" Barnes leaves his ability to get high marks to David Sprague.
 Rosella Amsden leaves us still wondering about her quiet manner.
 Dorothy Gratton leaves for the nearest church aisle.
 "Ronnie" Soule leaves some lame excuses propped up on crutches to the girls' basketball team.
 Jean Manning leaves her Pop's car — what's left of it — to anyone who has passed driver education.
 "Ruth" Eddy leaves a space for another cute, dark-eyed brunette.
 Gordon Winot leaves (without misgiving) some of his slightrness of stature to Dean Flint.
 Barbara Eddy leaves some frank opinions to liven up someone's class meeting.
 Irene Duto leaves high school gladly, to work in the Grand Union.
 Richard Ordway leaves his quietness to "Bud" Maynes so that he will no longer get into trouble.
 Marilyn Coffin leaves her troubles in filing to any junior who attempts it next year.
 Joyce Campbell leaves the senior bankbook, empty after our class ride, to next year's treasurer.
 Elinor Parker leaves her ability to get acquainted with people to Betty Tyler.
 Janet Tancreti leaves a year's supply of gum to anyone who dares to chew it in typing class.
 Hazel Bennett leaves her desk equipped with nearby radiators in Room 10, to Richard Cutting.

In witness whereof, we, the class of nineteen hundred and fifty-one, do hereby publish and decree this to be out last will and testament upon leaving Randolph High School.

Class Prophecy

By Louis Belisle and Carolyn Dickinson

TIME: September 19, 1975

PLACE: Tunbridge Fair, in a pup tent put up by Madam Shasta

Madam (Standing in front of her tent): Come in and have a few lies — uh — I mean fortunes told of yourself and friends (as the only hobo to come out of the Class of '51 staggers by, she hails him). Sir, would you like to have me try to tell your fortune?

Hobo: Uh — yeah, I suppose so — ma'am. Not much to tell as you can see what I am.

Madam: Come in and sit where we can be alone, heh-heh-heh (gazing into a crystal ball) — uh — now let's see! You have led a pretty fast life, my boy, slow down!

Hobo: I realize that, but I have come in to see if you can tell me anything about the Class of '51.

Madam: I see that Dino Merusi was so fascinated with Montreal that he forgot to come back with his classmates and is now living there.

Hobo: What happened to Edna Bingham after she took off her cap and gown graduation night?

Madam: Um — Hum — I see that that graduation gown changed to a wedding gown.

Hobo: Can you tell me whether Elwin Preston and Irene Duto are still together?

Madam: Elwin is still delivering groceries, while Irene is home taking care of little Elwin, Jr., and Irene, Junioress.

Hobo: What happened to that little Franch girl, Beatrice LaPerle?

Madam: She always was interested in eggs and later married an egg man.

Hobo: What happened to my friend, Frank Maynard?

Madam: I see where he married the girl in Northfield, but, as a sideline, he is manager of the Rockettes of Radio City Music Hall.

Hobo: We had a dark complexioned girl in our class by the name of Janet Tancreti. Can you find anything about her?

Madam: I see a group of little innocent faces looking up to a teacher — ah — it is Miss Tancreti; she hasn't changed a bit.

Hobo: Do you see anything concerning "Phil" Morse?

Madam: I see an image of "Phil" in a factory. Oh, yes, it is the Sargent-Roundy Corporation; he is manufacturing a car called "Morshwinski," an offspring of the Ford; his salesman is "Ken" Proctor, although he finds it hard to pronounce the name (leave it to Morse). Uh — let's see — oh, yes, he has two girls around. Why, it's those two Eddy girls — Barbara and Marilyn — each on one of his knees.

Hobo: I've been gone so long that I've lost track of some of the class' steady girls.

Madam: Elaine Chadwick is still keeping a pillow in front of her sofa for the return of her amoureux (lover). Dorothy Gratton's pillow got used when her amoureux proposed.

Hobo: Well, I hear old R. H. S. underwent a change in faculty after our class completed their schooling there. I was just wondering who the kids have to punish them now.

Madam: Joyce Campbell is the iron rule over the third grade, while Marilyn Coffin has started a kindergarten in Randolph.

Hobo: Did any of the girls get employment up at Van Raalte's?

Madam: I see Dorothy Amadon, Rosella Amsden, and Helen Rix sewing.

Hobo: We used to have a young and handsome Casanova in our class by the name of Ronald Soule. Can you find anything about him?

Madam: Ah — my crystal ball is hazy — ah — yes, he is now editor of the Weekly Scandal and his proof readers are none other than Laurette Roberts and Jean Manning; he claims that they haven't made a mistake since the last publication (two days ago). His linotype is run by Sylvia Jarvis.

Hobo: What happened to tiny Rich Ordway?

Madam: He is now herdsman at the Cow College on Cow Hill.

Hobo: How successful was that young chemist of the Class of '51? You know, Donald Perry?

Madam: Ah, now, let's see — oh, yes, I see a figure, rather chubby, wrapped in bandages. I guess one of his experiments blew up in his face. His nurse, Elva Jean Wilber, is taking his pulse. His sweetheart is yelling bloody murder — you know, jealousy!

Hobo: What about that little girl who always won plays with her old maid parts?

Madam: She went to New York, where she is now part of the cast in the Broadway play, "Sparkin'"; she's the only one for the part, with her tobacco spitting.

Hobo: We had a midget in our class by the name of Gordon Winot. Can you find him?

Madam: This is strange. I see a magazine that is supposed to represent the Randolph Town Report; I notice it has many mistakes in it — Ah, I see that Gordon Winot is the linotype operator, so this explains it.

Hobo: Has Hazel Bennett changed her name yet?

Madam: Yes, she has. I see that her letters are addressed Mrs. now.

Hobo: Bobby Barnes was always the studious type and a woman hater.

Madam: He went to college and his hatred for women vanished. He went to live in Turkey so he could have more than one wife.

Hobo: What about Elaine Pitkin?

Madam: She is the artist who won the last arts exhibit in New York.

Hobo: Did Elinor Parker continue her interest for interior decorating?

Madam: Yes, she did. I see where she decorated the new high school in Randolph when they finally got it in 1965.

Hobo: Well, I guess all the graduates of that class prospered. I remember when the others said we wouldn't amount to much, especially the boys. Well, got to be on my way. I've a freight train to catch to the Mid-West at 3:35.

Class Song

By Elaine Chadwick and Donald Perry

Onward, onward forever and aim for your best;
Remember the friends who were so kind;
Schoolmates and classmates we leave behind;
Always endeavor, let time be the test;
Let us not fail, always be proud of R. H. S.

Onward, onward forever and aim for your best;
While thinking of hours that have gone to rest,
Dreaming of days when we loved you best;
Those days and hours which were filled with jest;
Years will not change; our love will remain for R. H. S.

Class Poem

By Elaine Pitkin and Gordon Winot

Assembled here the Class of Fifty-one,
The long awaited day is nigh. We find
A challenge laid before us, and we pause
To cast one longing, ling'ring glance behind.

But, no! my Classmates, 'tis no time to stop.
We must take that first falt'ring step ahead.
Without it we are lost. Go forth to serve
With stalwart heart. We shall no more be led.

To heights of great successes some will soar,
While some may fail along life's toilsome lane.
Where'er our footsteps carry us, we must
As citizens of honor true remain.

As we step out from this protected spot,
With poignant memories fresh in each heart,
Into the turmoil of the world, the truth
Must be our guide, and from it never part.

And, so, like knights of olden times, who rode
With the courage of God within their breast,
We must seek to do His bidding, to place
Our faith in Him, and in it ever rest.

Music

The opportunities for musical activity have increased decidedly this year. A festival has been organized among the schools of Winooski Valley, which gives promise of developing into an organization of great value to many more students than could ever be sent to the state festival from one school.

Three students participated in the New England Festival in Maine and also sang in Boston Gardens.

The high school students gave a concert in Music Hall for the purpose of building their Music Fund. The size of this fund determines to a certain extent the number of activities in which the school can take part.

Debating

The 1950-51 season has been Randolph's most successful year in debating, despite a poor start.

On December 4, we trekked to Hanover, N. H., to debate with schools from New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts. Much to our chagrin, the record was no wins, eight losses.

On December 17, we went to Burlington to participate in a round-robin contest in which no decisions were given. It was merely for our badly needed practice.

On March 31, we sponsored a tournament here, in which five schools, Randolph, Bethel, Leland and Gray Seminary, Montpelier, and Lyndon Institute, partook, supplying seven teams in all. Montpelier won first place and Randolph, second, winning seven and losing five.

However, when it really counted, Randolph came through — winning all six of its debates at the annual invitational tournament sponsored by the University of Vermont. We are especially proud of Leah Jones, '52, who was awarded first speaker's prize of a full year's tuition at U. V. M., and Dorothy Perry, '53, third speaker, who received a half year's tuition.

State One-Act Play

For the first time in the history of Randolph High School the cast in the District Play Contest, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Perry, received first place for their play, "Sparkin'". The players competed against Burlington, Spaulding, Montpelier and Chelsea High Schools. Those included in the cast were Dorothy Perry, Philip Morse, Carlene Rogers, and Joyce Campbell. Carolyn Dickinson, Elaine Chadwick, and Barbara Baker helped with properties and costumes. The cast was chosen as an alternate for the State Play Contest held at St. Johnsbury.

For state championship, we were awarded the privilege of keeping the Lawrence trophy for one year, and a permanent trophy was given us by the Burlington Free Press.

In debating club this year there were eighteen students, nine of whom debated interscholastically. Besides the four on the tournament team, we believe that the other five of these nine should be given credit for their hard work. They are Gilbert Billings, Peter Catlin, Christine Snow, Ruth Angell and Wendell Thurston.

Also we wish to express our gratitude to our coach, Wilmond Parker, without whose patience, understanding and wisdom this championship would never have been won.

Safety Patrol

The Randolph High Patrol was the first of its kind organized in the state. It has kept a record of not a single accident while on duty and lived up to it again this year.

The patrol went to Rutland for a field day on May 26. Qualifications for the School Safety Patrol are:

1. Sound moral character.
2. Dependability and willingness to obey orders.
3. Good scholastic record —
 - (a) Passing in three subjects.
 - (b) In good standing with all teachers in conduct, work accomplished, etc.

Building Patrol

The Building Patrol is made up of senior girls who volunteer to help with school duties. Among these duties are inspecting desks, patrolling the hall and stairs, pulling the shades and inspecting the cloakrooms. In return for their service, each girl receives credit toward her Silver R.

1. "Well! Just Who Are You?"— Senior Play. 2. "Oh, No!" — Senior Play. 3. Uhhh! 4. Sink It!
 5. "C'mon, Randolph!" 6. "Gee, lookit the tall buildings!" — English Class in New York. 7. Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer. — Senior Christmas Assembly. 8. "Ow! Lemme go!" — Senior Play. 9. "Congratulations, Seniors, on winning the Carnival Cup." 10. "Eh, what's that?" — Senior Play.
